Comments:

The cost charged to a requestor is very minimal. I am not asking to make money on this, however. This cost of coping is fine if the page is right there in front of you. But they never are. So I have to pay someone to go to archives, or to a computer and physically take the time to find all that is requested. Then make copies of all the paperwork that had been requested. Then I have to make a room available for the requestor to sit down and review all 200 pages, and for us to make sure no pages are stolen or destroyed. Then when the requestor is done reviewing them and he only wants 4 pages. So now I can charge him $.60
